The University of Nicosia, the University of Cyprus, the Open University Cyprus and the Greek Computer Society organize the 23rd Pan-Hellenic Conference on Informatics (PCI'2019) in Nicosia, Cyprus on November 28-30, 2019. All universities in Cyprus support the Pan-Hellenic conference and participate in its committees. PCI'2019 aims to provide an effective channel of communication among researchers (universities, research and development centres, start-up centres and incubators), practitioners (SME leaders and managers), decision-makers (government, ministries and state agencies) and entities concerned with the latest research, scientific development and practice on ICT in order to discuss current, state-of-the-art topics that are of relevance and significance for national competitiveness as well as for sustainable, robust and equitable regional development. PCI'2019 encourages the submission of high quality papers describing original and unpublished results of conceptual, empirical, experimental, or theoretical work in all areas of Computer Science.
