UNIVERSITY of NICOSIA | MEDICAL SCHOOL

Invitation to a Guest Lecture

Practising Medicine in a Low Resource Setting - Madagascar

Speaker: Reverend Archimandrite Anastasios Poyiadjis
Internal Medicine & Missionary Doctor at the Health Centre of 'Annunciation' in Tulear, Madagascar

Date: Thursday, 12 October 2017

Time: 18:30-19:30

Venue: UNESCO Amphitheatre, University of Nicosia

About the Speaker

Reverend Archimandrite Anastasios Poyiadjis is an Honorary Professor of Tropical Medicine at the University of Nicosia Medical School. He received his MD and PhD from the Medical School of the University of Athens. He was then ordained to the priesthood of the Orthodox Church and received his Degree of Theology from the School of the same university.

From 1993 to the present day he has devoted most of his time to working as a Missionary Priest and Doctor in various African countries: Kenya, Uganda, Tanzania and Madagascar (2010 to date). He has gained wealth of clinical experience in Tropical Medicine, and he is a specialist in adapting medical practice to low income health settings, particularly in rural areas.

Click or Call 22-471900 to reserve your seat